Audience: Parties outside of Stanford Medicine Children's Health that have been provided with a link to upload imaging studies for review by a Stanford care provider.

Summary: When using the available link to upload a study to Stanford Medicine Children's Health's image sharing platform, please follow the instructions below.

Upload Study

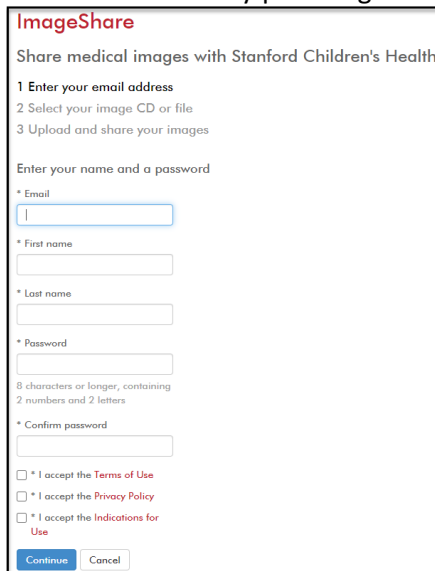

Preferred Browser: Google Chrome, Microsoft Edge, Firefox, Safari

The link that is provided to you should take you to this page:

1. Enter your email address. If you have used Ambra before and have an account associated with your email, you will proceed directly to step two after entering your password. If you are a first-time user, Ambra will ask you to create an account by providing the following fields:

The screenshot shows the 'ImageShare' account creation page. It features the same header as the login page. Below the steps, it asks to 'Enter your name and a password'. There are input fields for: * Email, * First name, * Last name, * Password (with a note: '8 characters or longer, containing 7 numbers and 2 letters'), and * Confirm password. At the bottom, there are three checkboxes for accepting Terms of Use, Privacy Policy, and Indications for Use, followed by 'Continue' and 'Cancel' buttons.

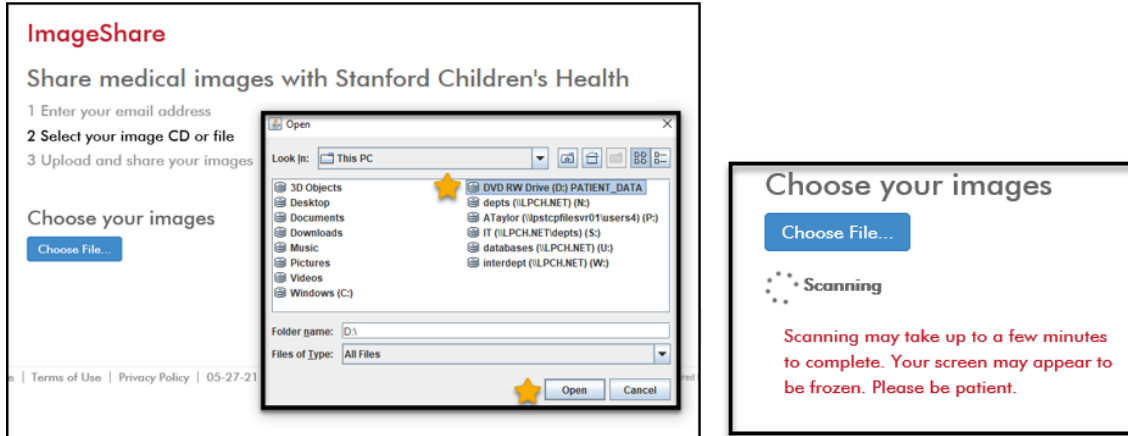

Establishing your personal Ambra user account will provide:

- Secure, cloud storage, of your uploaded imaging studies
- Ability to access and/or share imaging studies in the future by logging in to <https://access.ambrahealth.com/>
